My personal thanks are due to Mr. P. A. Smit for our stimulating collaboration in planning and preparing the Colloquium and to Dr. E.C.W. Krabbe who took upon him the task of managing editor of this volume.

Speaking for all three, our most profound thanks go to the then President, Professor D. de Wied, and other members of the Board of the Royal Netherlands Academy of Arts and Sciences for deciding in favour of a Colloquium, sponsored by and under the auspices of the Academy, on logic and politics. Their readiness to support research in this strangely neglected field should be recognized and contemplated by participants and readers alike.

The technical assistance given by the various branches of the Academy staff was always of high quality and the cooperation extremely pleasant and efficient.

We are also glad that an allotment from the Groningen Faculty of Philosophy to a small local meeting could be used instead for the invitation of two additional participants to this larger international Colloquium.

Our warm thanks are due to Mr. H. Isaacson for his helpfulness and care in improving the English of some of the papers.

E.M. Barth
